Universal Pictures Dating can often seem like an endless process of collecting through trash to find a pile of gold. Between bad vibes and bad clothing choices (hello, sweatpants with dress shoes for no reason), it's easy to wonder how the hell, no one told some guys what not to do. While it's safe to say that women can be just as flawed as men in terms of some dating behavior, here are some of the most vile dating habits that too many guys fall into. Hate on the dating app you met on. While it's ok to make some innocent jokes about how you met, acting like you're going to have to throw yourself in front of a train because you met a date through a dating app that much of the world uses or used at some point is a waste of time as well as supes boring. Miss. 2. Without asking you any questions at all. So many dating tips guys are given comes down to Just ask questions, bro, so the fact that some of them still don't do that even once is just lazy and weird. Besides, you really don't want to know me at all? Really? Ew. 3. Without disclosing anything about themselves as they are in witness protection. This is a sneaky trick I swear some guys use on purpose. I think the logic is that they have since asked you so many questions about you, you have a duty to think that they are really interested, and that's a good thing. What's not good is to leave the date and realizing you know literally nothing about him, but his name and the fact that he's alive. What are you hiding, Seth?! 4. Just talk about your work to the point where you want to leave. Look, if you're both in the same field or you're really wondering what he's doing, that's cool. But too many guys talk about how they work in receivables and tie everything they say back into their fast-paced receivables life. There are other interests, pleeeeeease. 5. Texting while you're freaking talk. I believe that if you are on a date (especially on a first date), you should just put the phone away. It's such a nervous experience that catching him checking his Instagram while talk about how you just started volunteering at an animal shelter can feel cold af. What's serious? Would you rather see what strangers do than listen to a hot woman in front of you? 6. Commenting on what you ordered. Li Li Li I love women who eat a lot or come on, don't just get a salad by making any comments about choosing a woman's food not to chill move at all. If you really need to weigh in, just say something like: I love pasta too. Is it lame? Yes. Is it potentially embarrassing for her to order anything, what the hell she wanted to order right now? No 7. Commenting on how much or how little food you have finished. It's very similar to the one above, but in this case we're talking about: Wow, you have to be hungry! Or are you not going to finish it? And so I'll say it again: we ATE AND ORDERED WHAT we wanted. Shh. 8. Be offended if you want to split the check. Or that you didn't offer to split it. Dude, if she wants to split the bill, it's not going to kill you to let her split it. Similarly, if you offered to pay and it didn't stop you, let it go, at least for now. If any behavior is a deal breaker for you just don't ask her again. It's as simple as that. 9. Mansplaining nothing. If she says she's being chased a lot in the street, don't tell her it's a compliment. If she says she feels her field is a bit sexist, don't tell her it's not because you know one woman who works in the same area and she seems happy. Basically, she knows what it's like to live her own life. You don't have to tell her she's wrong. 10. Comparing you to other women he's dated. Linking up for a recent crappy date can be a lot of fun, but telling her how she's not like other girls and talking shit about other women you've come out with is the worst. It just makes you feel like you hate women or you're some crazy perfectionist who's going to make fun of her as soon as she walks out the door. Neither bodes well for her future trust in you. 11. Wearing a very, very strong cologne. That's why roommates exist, so ask you if he can smell you from the mall, which is 5 miles away, and if he can, oh my god, back eff and take a shower. I'll start walking very slowly to see if she's going away. It hasn't gone away yet, so that's a good sign, but maybe I'm not close enough yet. I'll move until our lips touch. 2. Good, game time. I never stopped thinking about how weird it is to act. I'm glad my brain has chosen now to make me feel hyper-aware of everything I'm doing now. 3. This angle is a bit I feel like if I try to move, she'll suddenly change her mind about me. It's worth deep cramps in my neck. 4. Should I use ChapStick? Do I even have a ChapStick? 5. How does my breath smell? I probably should have popped the mint before I made a conscious conscious breathe down her throat. 6. Actually, I have to breathe, but it's disgusting

isn't it? Okay, stop breathing. No, I'm dizzy right now. I need to breathe. OKAY, NOW I'M BREATHING TOO HARD, AND IT'S CREEPY. 7. Are my teeth crooked? I had to listen to my orthodontist and keep that fixer in more often. 8. Should I go to the language, or should I let it take the lead? I'm just going to go for it. Okay, we're not on the same page here. Maybe she liked that I was maneuvering my tongue there. 9. I can't stop thinking about that scene in Little Giants, where Devon Sava and Icebox talk about tonsil hockey, and then Devon Sava drops the magazine they're sitting on. Wait, was it a log or a boat? I have to remember that for sure. 10. Where do I put my hands? I can feel my hands dictating what kind of kiss it is. If I put them on her, it's really sexy. If I grab her hips, it'll be more at ease. If I grab her head or her hair, maybe it's a little girl passionately? Where is the neutral place to put your hands? Knees? Maybe I'll just never stop moving my hands like a hesticing professor. 11. Do all girls like what I'm doing now? Maybe only this girl! I first kissed in high school liked it, but I'm still doing it, and maybe it's really awful and I look like an idiot, but I kiss so badly that no one has a heart to tell me. 12. WAIT, AM I KISSING LIKE A SCHOOLBOY? 13. Is it normal that I have a partial blunder? Where do I put it? 14. We've been out for 30 seconds, does she want me to put my hand on her breasts? Hand thist - the biggest adventure of a man. 15. Wow, the is the go. God, my jaw is tired. Want more from Frank? Follow him on Twitter. And he has sore abs and chiseled hands to prove it. But to keep him happy, you have to be in constant motion too. This guy doesn't like to sit on... and he doesn't like it when you sit on your own. And it's not just a phase. In his late 30s, he would get into marathons and they would lead to triathlon and end up in the Ironman competition. Yes, that means a trip to Hawaii... but instead of cooling off on the beach, you'll be cheered by it from the outside. Having fun? Butch Hogan is a Nice Guy with a chip on his shoulder He will make fun of tools that try too hard with a daring choice of clothes to seem down to earth, but here's his messy little secret: He spends as much time choosing his outfit as his more fashion-conscious colleagues do. Under The outside is a calculating killjoy with mom issues. He's going to stand in the bar and think, why is this girl coming for this guy? One day she will come to her senses and A good guy like me! The truth is, he's so preoccupied with being overlooked that he doesn't pay any attention to your attention. Butch Hogan Smooth Operator He's the type who rolls up the club in Escalade and holds court in the VIP section, ordering the bottle service all night. Although he got Ds in high school, he now scores A, B, and C cups with entertaining small conversation and name drop. Yes, he is Casanova in a skullcap (she replaced his trucker hat about a year ago). But this cover spells the problem. It takes confidence to pull it off with a straight face - too much confidence. (There is such a thing.) It will shower you with attention, but be careful: You may not be the only chick in this soul! Butch Hogan Workaholic Hotshot This guy is always dressed in nines because he's loaded. Simmer - cash flow comes in price. He works until the very two hours, and then loosens his tie and parties, as if tomorrow will not be. Unfortunately tomorrow and it starts in three hours. What less time it has for you to be in conjunction with his BlackBerry. Ugly truth: Money is the love of his life, and you are just a mistress... or a second mistress, since he was probably crunching more than the numbers with his secretary.
